A Matter of Thankgiving

Thanks to the friends of Tonopah, certain San Francisco and New Yorkers, to be more explicit, the local stocks have continued on the decline within the past few days, notwithstanding the improvement in mine conditions. Some day a law will be enacted by the national government that will serve to protect mining communities from the actions of "shylocks" who are found to exact their "pound of flesh" from the investors in mining securities. With no law, other than stock exchange rules to prevent the practice of carrying out wash sales, the investor is at the mercy of the unscrupulous broker and the end is always with the investor losing and the broker pocketing his gains.

The system of "wash" sales is conducted successfully on both the San Francisco stock exchange and the New York curb. This fact is made certain by the announcement recently of a Tonopah Belmont official, who declared that less than one-fifth of the sales reported had been followed by the transfer of stock on the books of the company, showing conclusively that the sales were not of a legitimate character, having been made solely for the purpose of depressing the price that marginal buyers might have their accounts wiped out.

Buyers on margin must be exceedingly fortunate to win, for the odds are against them. Their own money is used in forcing a decline in prices and once a stock starts to hit the decline it takes but little effort to encourage its depression. This fact was demonstrated recently when the North Star dropped from better than 90 cents to the 55 cent mark. The subsequent decline is easily explained, but the original drop was the result of a master hand taking a hand in the game.

The safest method of preventing "shylocking" brokers from controlling the market would be the enactment of a national law requiring the transfer of all stock certificates upon the books of the company within a specified time after the sale. Transfer offices would have to be opened at various stock exchange points, in order to protect the investor and allow him to dispose of his holdings without delay, should a profitable opportunity arise. Some day it is hoped that a law of this nature will be passed, but the time appears far distant and little relief is in sight for the investor who is forced to have dealings with the brokers who belong in the unscrupulous class.

A Word of Warning

A warning is issued to the Tonopah business men, as well as to the commissioners of this county in an article appearing in the last issue of the Ely Record. For the benefit of all concerned the article is given herewith:

The many new strikes reported on the western slope of the White Pine range in Nye county, which include Willow Creek, Cold Springs, Irwin Canyon, and other camps of that section, is opening up a new and broad field for Ely merchants. The camps of Willow Creek, for there are two of them, are the most important at the present time. They are situated about midway between Ely and Tonopah, and can do their trading at either point. Ely merchants have a slight advantage in that there are many ranches along the road in this direction where water and feed can be had, while there are no settlements along the road to Tonopah. Freighters who live in that section of country state that they can haul goods or ore to or from Ely for much less money than to Tonopah. It is also stated by miners and ranchers of that section that merchandise is much cheaper in Ely than in Tonopah. It would be well, however, for the Ely merchants to induce teamsters to establish a regular freight line between this place and Willow Creek, where there will be much business in the near future. The new business is well worth looking after, and with a little attention will soon prove a source of much profit to Ely merchants. If all camp supplies are purchased in Ely the ore shipments are sure to come this way.

Prompt action should be taken at once if Tonopah expects to direct the trade of the Willow Creek district to this locality. The district has every appearance of being permanent and with the amount of work now being prosecuted, considerable amount of trade will be derived. The Ely merchants and commissioners are thoroughly awake to the situation and have started toward furthering their ends by securing the entire trade of the district. On the other hand the Tonopah merchants appear to have overlooked the field entirely and are trusting to chance and providence that this city will be made the source of supplies.

Within the past two weeks no less than 50 automobiles have visited Willow Creek, the machines having been sent out from Ely and already the Elymen have established cordial relations with the miners and prospectors engaged in developing the new region.

Tonopah recently formed a promotion or industrial organization and it is understood the main purpose of this association was the promoting of matters of local benefit. Thus far but little has been accomplished and it would appear the organization succumbed to the apathetic spirit that is observed in this district.
